

A woman with blonde hair and glasses, wearing a black sleeveless dress and blue heels, sits elegantly on a large, ornate chaise longue. The chaise longue has a painted backrest and is flanked by two small, decorative side tables, each holding a vase of pink roses. In the background, a grand staircase with white balustrades curves upwards. Above the staircase, a large painting depicts a historical scene with people in a room. The overall setting is a luxurious, classical interior.

Queen of the Castle

Marcy Holthus
is shaping
the future
of travel—via a 250-year-
old French
château.

By Casey Hatfield-Chiotti